

Dear Students,

Welcome to the Faculty of Science at the University of Mauritius. It is a pleasure to have you join our dynamic academic community as you begin your undergraduate journey. Our faculty, comprising of four departments—Biosciences and Ocean Studies, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics—enjoys a strong reputation for academic excellence, innovative research, and producing graduates who contribute meaningfully to science and society.

Progressing from secondary school to university marks an exciting new chapter. University life brings greater independence, diverse learning experiences, and the opportunity to shape your own academic path. Along with these opportunities comes the responsibility to take charge of your studies, manage your time effectively, and engage fully in the learning process. You will find strong academic and administrative support every step of the way. Our lecturers, tutors, and support staff are committed to helping you succeed. We are here to ensure that your university experience is both enriching and empowering.

Life at the Faculty of Science goes beyond lectures and labs. As a student here, you'll be part of a dynamic, diverse and welcoming community that encourages both academic and personal growth. Whether through student societies, fieldwork, seminars, or campus events, you'll find plenty of opportunities to connect, collaborate, and thrive.

We look forward to accompanying you on this rewarding and transformative journey.
